In the afternoon towards night the wind hauled up from the right direction which gladdened us all. Saw several vessels during the day. Sammie thinks if this wind holds we shall make Block Island in the morning and get in by afternoon

13th Had a fine breeze through the night until about 4 A.M. when just as we made Montauk it died away entirely. About 9 A.M. the Pilot came on board. By that time we had given up all hopes of getting in today. This day drags very heavily. At 1 P.M. a slight breeze sprang up. passed the Schooner B. C. Babcock of Egg Harbor saw a "propeller" and ships and small craft too numerous to mention. The Pilot could give us but very little news. had not a paper on board. and did not even know who were the candidates for the Presidency.

Journal of Mrs. Samuel Lawrence continuation

She arrived to hear in New Bedford of the death of her father Jonathan E. Chipman of consumption several months before. which the papers had given her before

His death is recorded on page 28. She first heard of it on reading a paper in Honolulu.
